

17-23 JANUARY 2015

Learning from London: Mission and Evangelism in the 21st Century

A travel course with Professor Jason Fout

concept photo © David Jaxoo

Bexley ✦ Seabury

17-23 JANUARY 2015

Learning from London: Mission and Evangelism in the 21st Century

An academic travel course on mission
& evangelism in the Diocese of London

At a time when the Episcopal Church is shrinking in many parts of the United States, the Diocese of London in the Church of England has increased average weekly attendance by 70% since 1990 and giving by 50% since 2000. What can we learn from London?

Jason Fout

Join Dr. Jason Fout of the Bexley Seabury Federation to explore the mission and evangelism taking place in the Diocese of London through dynamic local parish programs, strategic plans for planting and renewing churches, and an inspiring vision for ministry in one of the most diverse, vibrant, cosmopolitan, multi-faith and secularized urban centers in the world.

Course participants will spend time learning best practices from seasoned practitioners. Plan to come away energized to tell a different story about the possibilities present to the church in America!

Explore the mission & evangelism taking place in the Diocese of London.

Who: This course is suitable for MDiv or DMin students as well as anyone looking to learn more about contemporary mission and evangelism.

When: January 17-23, January 2015

Cost and Deadline: With registration by October 1, price is $1850. For registrations between October 2 and November 11, price is $2050. Price includes ground transportation, lodging, breakfast and dinner. Price does not include airfare. $1000 deposit due with registration; remainder due by December 1, 2014.

Students taking the course for MDiv or DMin credit will pay an additional $1590 tuition for three hours of credit.

Register early! Space is limited.

Learn more:

www.bexleyseabury.edu/learningfromlondon

© HTB London

Photo: Bernard Gagnon

© HTB London

© HTB London